THE MUNICIPAL TICKET nominated by the Republican Convention on Monday meets with the hearty endorsement of the Republican press of the city, and, so far as we can learn, members of the party are perfectly satisfied with the candidates selected. The feeling of discontent which developed itself immediately after the announcement of the result has almost entirely subsided, and the party is united in determination to elect the candidates put forth. Republicans will not fly the ticket on the ground of personal dislike or prejudice to either of the candidates, as the election of Democratic candidates in a city so intensely radical as our own, cannot fail having bad effect, especially on the eve of an important Presidential contest.

THE DEMOCRATS will nominate a straight-out Democratic ticket for the municipal offices. The leaders are decidedly opposed to going outside of the ranks for candidates to lead the party to defeat. They select to do battle without forming coalition with any other element in politics.

EXPERIMENTS have recently been made, on a new method, to use the ordinary coal of Illinois, and without coking, in the manufacture of iron. Two chambers are arranged in the furnace; one in which the chemical elements are simply liberated. The other, in which a blast is applied, and so much oxygen forced in as to produce sufficient heat to consume all the smoke, sulphur, and deleterious substances. Upon the first experiment, owing to a want of caution in conducting the process, the heat was made so intense that the iron, fire-brick, and everything else, were all melted down into a liquid mass. This mass was subjected to examination by the most careful tests, and found to contain no sulphur. Great confidence is felt that this process will soon be so perfected that most impure coal may be used successfully, without coking, in the manufacture of iron, and at the same time avoid entirely the inconvenience arising from discharging smoke into the atmosphere.

McCOY, the Steubenville murderer, of whose trial in that town we have already spoken, has been found guilty of murder in the second degree by the jury, and will be sentenced to imprisonment for life. McCoy is a gray headed man of sixty years, and is considered wealthy, being the owner of large tracts of land in Ohio.

THE American Consul General, C. Hale, is said, by a dispatch from Alexandria, to have procured a decree from the viceroy, permitting American missionaries and their converts to return to Egypt.

McCLELLAN declines any government office. The President has appointed E. Cooper, his Private Secretary, as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. It is thought he will not be confirmed.

Greenback or Gold?

MESSRS. EDITORS GAZETTE: There is at present much talk about the question whether the Government shall redeem the five-twenties in coin or in greenbacks. To give your readers an insight in this matter we shall explain it in a few plain words and eschew all sophisms.

The five-twenties are a promise to pay, the greenbacks are the same, consequently one is not an equivalent for the other. It is absurd to say a debt is paid by a promise to pay. Therefore if the Government redeems the five-twenties in greenbacks it does not decreased its debt. If the Government pays for one hundred dollars in bonds, one hundred dollars in greenbacks, the Government can not conscientiously a debt of one hundred dollars, pay-ible in coin. But bonds are worth at present more than one hundred dollars in greenbacks, we will say one hundred and twelve dollars, consequently by paying one hundred dollars the possessor would be deprived of twelve dollars every one hundred dollars in bonds. If the Government pays this monetary value for them the debt is increased this twelve dollars for every one hundred dollars of bonds so redeemed. Hitherto which twelve dollars are to be paid afterwards in gold, and at the same moment that the Government pays more than one hundred dollars in greenbacks for one hundred dollars in five-twenties, it acknowledges its duty to pay them in coin, or else need not pay more than one hundred dollars. What the Government would save by redeeming the bonds in greenbacks, is the interest. But as long as the Government does not really pay the value for the bonds, it has an unquestionable duty to pay interest. The greenbacks are no payment for the bonds, for the value of the greenbacks depends on the whim of the people, and is based in gold; it depends on the credit of the Government. But as it is certain that the credit of the Government will not be shaken, but will be considered as strong as ever, the greenbacks are not the same when it redeems the bonds in greenbacks, in lieu of gold, what was always an understood thing, the greenbacks will lose more or less of their value, consequently the Government does not pay the real value and has to pay interest until they are redeemed in gold. One can say, if a person has the greenbacks in possession, he gets their interest. But the greenbacks bear him interest in greenbacks, and those for the bonds are paid in gold, and this has at present more value than greenbacks. The Government pays interest for the credit we render it, and as the value of the greenbacks depends on the credit of the Government, our credit and confidence is asked for the greenbacks to take the place of that which we placed in the bonds, consequently the Government has to pay interest until it redeems the five-twenties in gold.

The bonds are redeemable within twenty years, but there is no time limited for the redemption of greenbacks, and instead of being paid at any rate after twenty years, by paying them in greenbacks, the payment is postponed to an unlimited time, for the payment in greenbacks is only a change in the form of the obligation; so the redemption in greenbacks is no payment. We have now every confidence in the Government that it will once redeem the greenbacks in gold; therein exists the value of them, But suppose we suddenly lose that confidence, what are the greenbacks worth? Nothing.

Money must have a value, whether a real value or a value based on the responsibility of the issuer. Gold has a real value, a value that never ceases. Paper has only a confidential value, depending on the credit of the issuer, and ceasing with that credit. It is quite sure that if the Government wants to pay its debts, it has to pay them really; it has to give the creditor an equivalent of real value; only this can be called payment. It is understood that when a debt is paid the obligation is to an end. But is that so, when the bonds are redeemed in greenbacks? Consequently, in this case the bonds are in fact not paid at all. It is absurd to say, like Thad Stevens, greenbacks are money, and the Government alone a right to make money out of metal, paper, leather, or whatever article it pleases. If the Government makes money out of paper, it will be accepted with the understanding that it is only a substitute for metal, because in the present state of the general finances only metal has a real value as money. When I give a person a check, he takes it with the implication that he will receive the money for it; and owing to this implication it can run through thousands of hands. It is worth the sum which it calls for by this implication only, and in the moment when it is sure that this sum will not be paid for it, it loses its value. So greenbacks can have no value without the certainty, or at least the expectation, that they will be exchanged in gold by that body which has issued them. Consequently the paying the bonds in greenbacks is an exchange of one promise for another, or of one obligation for another, and in fact no payment at all.

Besides this, the Government has also a moral duty to pay the bonds in gold. Although the bonds were not expressly contracted to be redeemed in gold, they were accepted with this understanding. We think that this binds the Government as well as an expressed promise. R.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1867.

THERE is no confirmation, in London, of the reported sinking of the Island of Tortola. The story is generally discredited.

THE French Chambers assembled on the 18th, and Napoleon stated that there was no longer any objection to German unity.

THE National Democratic Committee met to-day to issue an address and concoct a programme for the Presidential election.

MANY REPUBLICAN Congres men advocate the adjournment of Congress sine die, on the first day of meeting, until the regular day, the first Monday of December, as little can be done in the eight days session, which would intervene.

NOBLE MEN.

In every age and in every country there have been men who in goodness, unselfishness and generosity have stood up far above their fellows, like the mountains above the valleys. They have demonstrated that there are redeeming qualities in our race, that all are not wholly wrapped up in self, that there are those whose happiness consists in blessing others. Such was HOWARD and such is PEABODY, that prince of givers, to whom our own land gave birth. There are many liberal givers who seek not fame by their acts, but are influenced by an inward impulse, not by external force. Freely they have received, freely they give. They are earth's jewels. They seek wealth not for its own sake, but for the good it may do, the happiness it may give, the suffering it may relieve, the light and knowledge it may diffuse. They live and move on a higher plane than other men, far removed above the money loving, selfish and miserly. Uncelicited they give where good can be done, affording a most wonderful contrast to rich but penurious and niggardly men, who clutch their gold with a death grasp. The mean and selfish but rich men are utterly incapable of comprehending the acts of these great and free-giving men, and are even ready to assign to them unworthy and selfish motives, such as they are influenced by. "He is rich and able to give and it is no liberality in him," say these sordid souls. Are they not rich also? Do they give of their incomes in proportion to him? "He makes his money easily." Does he make it more easily than they? Do they remember that fortunate and accidental speculation by which they realized many thousands without any toil or any remarkable sagacity of theirs? and how much of it did they give to the needy and suffering? "He has a large income." Have they not also? Do they find their hearts enlarging and their liberality increasing in proportion to the increase of their incomes? In this is the striking contrast between them and him. Every addition to their thousands increases their love of money, their indisposition to give to others, it encases their hearts, shutting up one avenue after another, and to quiet the slight murmurings of the little conscience they have left, they seek to ascribe sinister and selfish motives to him who is in all worthy respects their opposite. They would bring him down to their low level, mortified and chagrined by the striking contrast between him and themselves. To palliate and excuse their excessive and contemptible meanness they would strip of all excellence him who is the glory of our race. Counterfeits themselves, they seek to prove there is no genuine. Thus they seek to shield themselves against all possible chances of being moved by any of the calls of the needy and suffering. From them the charitable institutions of the day, the poor at home and the degraded abroad, can expect nothing, unless wrung from them, or unless they can see how they can receive a good return or their names for once be blazoned abroad. The motives they attribute to others are theirs, they are mirrored forth in their words. The selfish and ungenerous will soon die and their names cease among men; the noble, unselfish, free giving will, without seeking it, forever live in the hearts of all good men and in the monumental institutions they have reared.

A PRETENTIOUS DOCUMENT.

A pamphlet has been extensively circulated under the frank of Senator JOHNSON, of Maryland, the authorship of which is ascribed to that astute lawyer. It has the startling title: "The Dangerous Condition of the Country, The Causes Which Have Led to It, and the Duty of the People." That the country is in a dangerous condition none will deny, but Conservative Republicans and that class of men who do not stop to think. The reason of this danger the observers on both sides ascribe to very different causes. One class affirm that the causeless and wicked recellion of Mr. JOHNSON's friends against the government, which had only wronged them in permitting them to do wrong, had plunged the country into the dangerous condition of which he complains. But Mr. JOHNSON and his class state that "the course which the legislative department has pursued has brought the country into this predicament, and has been the cause of the present trouble."

If this class of logic were new in the world's history, we should wonder that criminals should thus charge the officers of the law with creating danger; but the carpenter of Nazareth, who convicted the priests and Levites of gross violations of the law, was denounced by them, as a dangerous and pestilent fellow. The danger of the haunts of crime is justice. Against this the inmates guard, and seem to know no other fear, and it is but natural that the criminals of the South, and their allies of the North, should see danger in the just punishment of their criminal acts; but will the people, who arose, as one man, to break the armed force of the organized desperadoes, who thought to triumph over law, consent, now, to change places with them, ignore their crimes, and voluntarily assume the position of the party which "has been the cause of the present trouble?"

No fact in our history is more incontestable than this, that the legislative department, urged by the loyal people, whom it represents, were foremost in rescuing the government from the imminent danger of violent death at the hands of Mr. JOHNSON's political friends and allies; and for him to charge that department with being the cause of the trouble inseparable from the struggle into which they were forced, is as the highwayman who should complain of injuries received in an attempt on the life of a traveler.

From the first hour of the war for secession Mr. JOHNSON and his coadjutors justified the acts of those who waged it, and used every effort to thwart the Government in its suppression. It is not strange, therefore, that they should now, as always, make that Government and its Constitutional agents, the criminals who have created danger to the country. To the minds of Mr. JOHNSON's class of politicians the Slave Power was and is the country. They know no other country than the South, no other right than that of the Slaveholder to his slave. When this is menaced there is always danger, and when it triumphs the country is safe.

During the entire war they croaked continually of danger; danger to the Constitution, not from the rebels, who had openly disavowed it, and were literally wading in blood, to accomplish its destruction; but from the men banded together to defend it with life and fortune and sacred honor—to defend it to the last extremity and through it to victory and final security. These, to Mr. JOHNSON, have ever been the source of danger, the pestilent fellows who disturb their country. These outside barbarians who come from the North, and impertinently meddle with Mr. JOHNSON's world—that world which is the patrimony of the JOHNSON's—he no doubt honestly believe to be very dangerous. Hitherto they have proved that his fears are not ill founded; for his country is greatly curtailed of its power and dominion, by that vandal, "the legislative department," which represents a still more dangerous foe.

Formerly the danger which threatened Mr. JOHNSON's country was defeat by bayonets, and to avert this he and his coadjutors strained every nerve; but that defeat was accomplished, and now the new danger is a defeat by ballots; and to avoid this the most strenuous exertions are being made. The white loyalists and the legislative department suffered many a defeat in deference to the prejudices of the JOHNSON school of politicians, the present executive department, before they called black men to aid in the bayonet war, but in the face of the most strenuous opposition and dolorous predictions they were called. The responses and results exceeded the best expectations of the legislative department. It again halted and endured defeat in deference to the executive department before calling black men into the ballot war, but they have been called; and the result promises to be as satisfactory as that of the former measure. Now, while the new trial is in the incipient stages there is all the doubt and prejudice which embarrassed the first steps in arming black men, and all the evil with which its enemies contrive to surround it is confidently charged to its account.

When the Government triumphed over the rebellion aided by black men, the defeated rebels undertook to revenge that defeat on those humble and faithful allies by every species of outrage. They who had faithfully defended the Government, were, in the name of that Government, disarmed and left, defenseless, to the mercy of the common foe, who were permitted to reorganize and arm under pretence of defending themselves from those disarmed loyal blacks. They were driven from the lands they had faithfully cultivated, and these, with their improvements, were restored to their rebel owners. They were denied the right to rent or purchase land, and refused even the right to work for wages. As they are the working class of the South, of course the fields lie uncultivated to the extent to which this gross wrong against them prevails. Now, Mr. JOHNSON charges the results not on the wrong doer; oh, no. Cotton was Mr. JOHNSON's king, and "the king can do wrong." This lies with the intended victim and his friends who seek to defend him by arming him with the ballot as the only sure means of defence. He says:

"Ten of the States and their people are not only not admitted to equal rights with the rest, but, as far as the legislative department is concerned, are denied them, and subjected to mere military rule. The consequence is that the whole potential wealth of those States is, and will be as long as the present state of things continues, lost to the nation. Its great staples of sugar, rice, and cotton, which in the past so materially contributed to the general welfare, are not and cannot be produced. They nerved the arm of industry in all the other States as much as, if not more than, in the South. They enriched commerce, supplied the needs of the manufacturing industry of the East, furnished the best markets for its products, gave employment and remunerative wages to its employees, and increased the revenue of the country by increasing its imports. As long as this political disorganization remains, the more destructive will it be to the interests of all. What has brought the country into this predicament? The answer is obvious. It is the course which the legislative department has pursued."

That is, the legislative department has sought to secure the laborers in their right to cultivate the soil, therefore the course it has pursued has prevented the production of sugar and rice and cotton! "If these ten States had representatives in Congress they would raise staples!" How? Why? Where? Would the representatives carry their "shovels and hoes" up to Washington and raise cotton on Pennsylvania Avenue? Who hinders the ten States cultivating staples? The cry that negroes will not work for honest wages has been dropped; but if they would not, there are eight millions of whites in those States; why do not they raise sugar, rice and cotton? If they should take off their coats and make a very determined effort, does any one think the "military despotism" would interfere to prevent their putting in a crop, hoeing and harvesting it?

Our western territories find no difficulty in raising corn and wheat without a representation in Congress. We have seen forty bushels to the acre, of first rate wheat, growing on land and cultivated by men who were not represented in Congress. Nay more, the men who owned the land, and the wheat, paid taxes, and could not vote for President. Yea worse, they were liable to be drafted and compelled to fight for the country and Government which thus oppressed them, and none made a complaint of illusage, on that account.

If the people in Mr. JOHNSON's imperiled country will just make the experiment of plowing their land well, planting good seed, hoeing and weeding, they can be assured of crops if the weather is favorable and they are careful not to kill the birds.

If they cannot make up their minds to work, let them hire the negroes, pay them honestly and treat them well; or rent or sell them land, to cultivate, and see if they will not raise staples. If these men of Mr. JOHNSON's country, owning one half the best land of the Union, cannot so manage their own affairs as to raise staples, the people of our country do not need their aid in managing our affairs. They may need Congress, but Congress, certainly, does not need them; and we object to having representatives helping to rule our country who cannot so rule their own, as to make the land produce its staples.

The Philadelphia North American is endeavoring to secure in some way the passage of an ordnance or an act to prohibit street cars and omnibuses from taking more than a certain number of passengers. Such legislation would be desirable at times here. One person's right to a seat is as good as another's, and companies take advantage of the good nature of gentlemen who will get up and stand so as to allow women to set down. Whatever number a car will seat should be the established maximum, and when that number is aboard the conductor should put up in some place easily discernable from either sidewalk, a sign with the word "full" upon it. If this were done, more cars might be necessary, but the company would save in horses. If some such law as this were enacted and enforced, if a penalty were inflicted on the street car companies for every breach of it; the vexed question of whether it is necessary for a gentleman to give his seat to a member of the opposite sex, would be put at rest, and the dangerous practice of hanging on by tooth and toenail to the platforms of cars would be abolished.

SCHOOL HOUSES should be more pleasant to children, and the law should protect them from torture while in them. We know of one lady teacher, in our common schools, who whips very little children for having soiled hands and similar offences. The school system instituted by Philip of Spain, for the religious education of his subjects, is now regarded as a mistake, and any system of education embracing physical torture, differs from it but in degree. A teacher who can govern himself can always govern children without blows, and one who cannot has mistaken his vocation. A man who flies into a passion and strikes a child is unfit to have power over any living creature, and should be employed on insensible matter. As a stone cutter or brick layer he could find something to pound, when in a rage, without inflicting pain.

Clabber Alley is the euphonious title of that aristocratic portion of St. Louis which corresponds with the Five Points in New York, or the Bedford street of Philadelphia. Clabber is noted for crimes, and a new one has now to be added. A white peddler got into a dispute with some negroes and received wounds with a dirk, which may prove fatal. Louis Washington, in spite of his conglomera ion of cognomen, was accused of having assisted at this carving, but indignantly denied the hard impeachment, accusing Jerry Wilson of the deed, and Jerry is now incarcerated.

—A drove of cattle going aboard a boat at night at Fishkill, six of their number took to the river and struck out in various directions at random. Two men went out in a boat in search of them, and had hardly got out in the bay before they heard the most dolorous and agonizing shrieks from female voices. Directing their course to the places of the screaming, they discovered another boat containing three ladies, who were crossing to Newburgh from the cars in charge of a rower, and following them an ox which kept close to the man, making incessant efforts to get himself upon the boat. Seeing in the darkness nothing of the animal but his horns and the top of his head, hearing his loud snorts of breathing in the water, and having once heard his hoof strike the side of the boat, the girls, as can easily be imagined, were frightened out of their senses, and the oarsman quite as much terrified. Having approached the ox and turned it away, the rescuers found that the ladies had fainted from the excitement, and that the man from both the excitement and his great efforts to keep from the pursuer, had become utterly unable to make further effort. One of the deliverers rowed the ladies to Newburgh, and the other, with remarkable presence of mind and skill, fastened a rope to the horns of the ox and towed him back to Fishkill. The other oxen were successively reached and taken ashore—the last being found under the ferry dock, having swam between the piles and found a resting place for his head on a heap of stones.

—A great intellect sometimes sheds a joke as perfectly as a duck's back sheds the rain. The Right Hon. C. B. Adderley, in a recent speech at a Conservative dinner in Coventry, England, said: "I recollect once putting this question to Mr. Cobden: 'Do you not confess that the tendency of Englishmen is Conservative?' His answer was, 'Conservative is an expression hardly strong enough; they are Chinese, and if our great grandmothers had bound the feet of our great grandmothers into small shoes we should still be doing the same with our daughters.' I ventured a joke upon the occasion, and said that, in that case, we should have had another corn law. Mr. Cobden did not take the joke. He was a practical man."

—An old, fat and good natured looking negress was admitted into a New Orleans street car, but no one, not even of her own color, deigned to offer her a seat. A gentleman noticing her embarrassment, arose from his seat, and addressing her said, "Mammy, here, take my seat," to the great surprise of the darkies in the car. She got all down with an expression of unfeigned gratitude, she rolled up her white eye balls, and in a feeling tone thanked the gentleman, saying, "I sees youse had a mammy in your young time, massa; I'se glad you isn't forgot dem." The little scene created an emotion in the breast of every one present, and the least pleased was not the generous gentleman.

—The teacher of one of the primary schools in Lewiston, Me., overheard a conversation between two misses who are down on the register as four years old, which shows a decidedly aspiring mind. "O, dear," says one with a sigh, "I wish I had a feller." "I've got one," replied the other with a look of pity at her unfortunate playmate, as she confidentially imparted to her the name of the loved one, who is borne on the register as aged six. "Well," replied the first one, and a look as of pleasant memories flitted across her face. "I used to have one when we lived in Biddeford."

—I made a box and filled it with mold. In the mold I sowed some seed, and then placed the box in my window sill, and what do you think came up? A policeman, and told me to take it down again.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.
BY JOHN W. GEARY, GOVERNOR.

From the creation of the world, in all ages and climes, it has been customary to set apart certain days for special religious observance. This has not always been influenced by the light of Christian knowledge, nor by any proper conception of the character of that Great Being "who ruleth the earth in righteousness," and "who daily loadeth with his benefits;" but by an innate sense of the existence of an over-ruling Power, by which the world and all it contains are governed and controlled. Aided by the dictates of cultivated reason, and the teachings of Divine revelation, we, however, are taught to recognize in that Supreme Ruler a Heavenly Father, to whom we are indebted for existence and all the blessings we enjoy, and to whom we owe constant and fervent thanksgiving and praise. It is He who "visiteth the earth and watereth it;" who "setteth the furrows and bleseth the springings thereof;" who crowneth the year with his goodness, and whose paths drop fatness;" who "clothest the pastures with flocks, and coverest the valleys with corn;" who maketh the out-goings of the morning and the evening to rejoice;" who is "our refuge and strength;" who "maketh war to cease," and "saveth us from our enimies;" whose "throne is forever and ever," and who "bleseth the nations whose God is the Lord."

On all sides the increased assurances of the "loving kindness" of an All-wise Parent of Good, who has conducted our nation through a long and terrible war, and permitted our people to once more repose in safety, "without any to molest them or make them afraid." The monstrous sentiment of disunion is no longer tolerated. The Flag, the Union, and the Constitution are esteemed as the safeguards of the rights and liberties of the people, and are revered and defended as the ark of their political safety.

A kind Providence has not grown weary of supplying our continuous wants. A bounteous harvest has rewarded the labors of the husbandman. Flocks and herds are scattered in countless numbers over our valleys and hills. Commerce is uninterrupted, and vessels laden with the products of nature and of art, speed, unmolested, over the trackless deeps. Neither pestilence, famine, political or social evils, financial embarrassments or commercial distress, have been permitted to stay the progress and happiness of the people of this great Commonwealth; but peace, health, education, morality, religion, social improvement and refinement, with their attendant blessings, have filled the cup of comfort and enjoyment to overflowing.

Recognizing our responsibility to Him who controls the destinies of nations as well as of individuals, and "from whom cometh down every good and perfect gift," and to whom we are deeply indebted for all these and the richer blessings of our common Christianity, let us unitedly give our most devout gratitude and hearty thanksgiving.

I, therefore, do hereby recommend that THURSDAY, THE 28TH DAY OF NOVEMBER NEXT, be set apart as a day of praise and thanksgiving, that all secular and worldly business be suspended, and the people assemble in their various places of worship to acknowledge their gratitude and offer up prayers for a continuance of Divine favor.

GIVEN under my Hand and the Great Seal of the State, at Harrisburg, this thirty-first day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, and of the Commonwealth the ninety-second.

JNO. W. GEARY.

By the Governor:
F. JORDAN, Secretary of State.

Is Stimulation Necessary!

This question is practically answered in the affirmative by thousands of physicians every day. Sometimes they prescribe the ordinary forms of alcohol; sometimes tinctures which are simply infusions of roots, herbs, or barks; but no small proportion of the faculty give the preference to HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, as the most carefully prepared medicinal stimulant at present known. It is impossible for prejudice itself to be blind to the marked success with which this extraordinary tonic and alterative has been administered in cases of DYSPEPSIA during the last few years. It is now possible to canvass the whole country for cases in which it had effected a cure of this obstinate and agonizing disease, they would number millions. No wonder then, that it has become a STANDARD MEDICINE in every State, city, town and village in the United States, and that names, the most distinguished in literature, art and science, are the vouchers for its remarkable power. The firm is no small factory in Pittsburgh, with its existence synonymous to the latest establishment of the kind in the country, and, probably, in the world. The amount of manual labor employed in the preparation of the bitters, in addition to the steam driven machinery, is greater than that of any other privately managed establishment on this continent, and, by the blessing of Providence, the beneficial results of this well conducted and alterative are co-extensive with its continually increasing sales.

The Greatest Success Known.

We are credibly informed that during the month of October there was sold in this city alone over TWENTY-FIVE HUNDRED BOTTLES of DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP. These bottles of medicine show one thing infallibly, and that is that thousands of people are afflicted with coughs and colds. It also heralds the fact beyond all doubt, that DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP is the greatest of all remedies for such diseases.

The Doctor pockets the money when the Pectoral fails to do good in every case of hoarseness, recent cough, blood spitting, lung-ness, or any incipient lung disease. The fame of DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP is now as wide as the boundaries of our State, and in many cases has gone far beyond these limits.

Of the one hundred and sixty thousand computed citizens of Pittsburgh, not one can afford to do without this wonderful medicine. Its ten attend d upon hers of cure; its success in every household where it has been used; its long-continued usefulness in its well known component of harmless ingredients, has made DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP to be acknowledged not only by the people who have had occasion to use it, but has influenced it to receive the confidence of many of the most respectable of the medical profession. Sold at the Doctor's Great Medicine Store, 168 Wood street.

A Mississippi physician has invented a golden ink; that is, an ink which when dry is gold color and glittering, instead of sombre black.

A Democratic paper in Wisconsin has the significant title of the Beaver Dam Argus. Profanity such as this should not be encouraged.

The best pea-nuts come from Africa. The yield is great, generally amounting to something like seventy-five to one hundred bushels per acre.

A Missouri paper complains of inadequate male facilities in that region; the rest of the article led us to believe that mail facilities were meant.

The French navy has adopted an American invention for lowering and detaching small boats from the sides of vessels going at full speed.

The great storm in Connecticut last week did great damage to trees and telegraph wires. The snow drifts in some places quite covered the fences.

The shooting in Kentucky is said to be unusually fine; partridges, rabbits, deer and bears are very plentiful. Men, too, are there in large numbers, and a great many, of all kinds, are being shot.

Ducks are so plentiful in Illinois that they shoot them by wholesale with cannon. Excepting the magpie in the Ingoldsby legend, this is the only instance on record of the cannonizing of fowl.

An exchange says that a hunting party recently "bagged" one hundred and twenty hippopotami, twenty-three rinoscori and five lions. Pretty extensive sacking they must have used. We believe it, however, for we once saw Parepa in a sacque.

The criminal docket for the Jefferson County, Kentucky, Court contains seven names of persons indicted for murder and four for rape, besides a large number for assaults with intent to commit one or the other of the above crimes. Louisville must be a dangerous sort of a place.

A large buck was discovered swimming in Lake Erie fifteen miles from shore, by the propellor Equator last week. After an exciting chase this horn crowned swimmer was captured and taken on board the Equator alive, but his evident dislike to his new position forced his captors to kill him.

Prof. Louis Degemeyer, formerly Collector at Erie, Pa., was arrested on Sunday morning in Nashville by the United States Deputy Marshal for the Western District of Pennsylvania, on a charge of embezzlement of United States funds while holding the office in Erie, in 1865. Prof. Degemeyer admits the defalcation, which amounts to $60,000, and which went in unsuccessful oil speculations.

The city passenger cars ran regularly all day last Sunday, in Philadelphia, and were well filled almost every trip; they moved without bells and made but little noise. The satisfaction expressed at the new order of things is almost universal, and an overwhelming majority of the citizens there find they have been kept out of their rights and privileges by a few interfering, sanctimonious pharisees. This is the more singular, as the press of the city was, so far as we know, unanimous in favor of the present order of things.

A man in Cincinnati was recently so annoyed by the caterwauling of an array of feline quadrupeds, that he got out of bed, seized a boot jack and rushed to the window to inflict dire vengeance. An opposite neighbor being likewise minded appeared at the same moment, at his window, with a pistol, which he fired at the cat, but the bullet went directly in the window of the boot jack man, which so alarmed him that he retreated to bed; the cats, however, were scared off for the night. Fortunately no one was hurt.

A man in Philadelphia became the victim of a conspiracy the other night. He was going home from the police station, where he was employed as a telegraph operator, when he heard a woman scream murder in the most agonized and natural manner; he immediately ran towards her and asked what was the matter? This question was answered by a man, who was concealed there for that purpose, coming up and hitting him with a life preserver on the head, knocking him insensible. The abandoned villains did not get enough from their victim to pay for their trouble.

An atrocious case of wife beating has recently come to light in Chicago. A fiend, in the shape of a good looking man, has been maltreating his wife in a horrible manner, turning her out of doors for an hour or two on nights when the sleet was driving fast, beating her when she was in a condition only to be treated with the most considerate kindness, and performing acts of terrible cruelty too atrocious to be made public. The injured woman has at length taken refuge in the law and instituted suit for divorce. The Judge has ordered the husband to pay her thirty dollars a month during the continuance of the suit, and fifty dollars down for all present necessities.

The Pittsburgh Gazette

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, November 19, 1867.

Government bonds opened dull and lower this morning, and declined still further as the day proceeded, and closed dull and heavy. The demand for 5-20's has been very light, though 5-20s of 1865 and 1867 are nearly ½ per cent. lower than on the old 5-20's. Old 6-20's have declined to 103½, but closed firmer at 103¾. The disposition among operators is to advance the premium, though gold is low in view of the demand, that is not sufficient for carrying it. The Europe news is generally favorable for a decline, and nothing but an attempt at repudiation would cause United States bonds to decline in the European markets, and advance the premium on gold here.

The persistent efforts of the Secretary of the Treasury, and the influence of the leading journals of the country, may at last convince people that it is useless to pay an enormous discount on our daily necessaries, while by an effort at resumption, the whole weight of the discount would be thrown on the imported goods, and thus would be less oppressive on the middle and laboring classes.

Closing New York quotations, received by Ph. R. Mertz, were as follows:

Gold, 130⅞; 1881's, 113; 5-20s, 1862, 108½; 1865, 108½; 1867, 109¼; Tennessee, 77⅞; 10-40s, 96½; Cleveland & Pittsburgh R. R., 83; Merchants' Union Express, 33½; Western Union Telegraph, 34½; Erie R. R., 73½; Pittsburgh Fort Wayne & Chicago R. R., 96; Northwestern, 54½; Northwestern—preferred, 53½; New York Central, 113; Ohio and Mississippi Certificates, 25½; Michigan Southern, 79½; Chicago & Rock Island, 102; Quicksilver, 17¾.

The following stocks were sold Tuesday evening, November 19th, on second floor of Commercial Sales Rooms, 108 Smithfield street. A. McClintock, Auctioneer.

—The New York Commercial and Financial Chronicle says of the improvement in business, owing to the heavy decline in prices, and says:

"Goods are now so far cheapened that retailers can buy with the expectation of being able to induce purchasers to take them at prices to which they can offer their goods. The inadequate returns to the farming interest, from the low prices of their large crops at high prices must also have an important effect in inducing a demand from that class of consumers, while the reduction of yellow fever in the South is bringing into the market many buyers from that section who have hitherto been kept at home by the sickness."

—The New York Express of Saturday evening says: There was a meeting to-day of the creditors of H. R. and W. H. Hubbell, which resulted in nothing being effected towards a settlement. The counsel of the latter tendered the creditors to accept fifty cents and interest, payable one-half in one and two, the prospect of ten cents more. It is highly probable that the estate will go into bankruptcy, and that the bankrupt law of 1867 will be in force before the assets are all wasted. The liabilities are $2,500,000 and the assets are $1,500,000.

—The assets of Robb, Jr. Taylored New York, as handed to-day, amount to $1,650,911 24, and the liabilities only $499,767 20. The liabilities of H. W. Hubbell, with whom Mr. Taylor was involved to the extent of $1,000, are reported at $1,538,100 00, and his assets at $984,658 51.

—The Cincinnati Gazette, of Monday, says:

There was no essential change in the leading features of the money market on Saturday. Markets are unchanged for all kinds of securities as usual, to a limited extent, but are disposed to keep themselves in a position to meet the expected demand from the pork packing interest which, at this season, takes a precedence of all other sales. The indications are that the open market is now secure, and there is not enough first class paper pressing on the money market, but there is enough to show that the total available at 10@12 per cent., while some paper commands 15 per cent., is limited to a share of 1%@2 per cent. per month.

—The New York Financial Bulletin says: In commercial circles business has shown some improvement, but this improvement is not to be in the amount of business than in prices. Prices of most kinds of merchandise are low, and the profits of trade are small. The receipts of breadstuffs at the west showed a material decrease, the aggregate for the week being only half a million bushels of wheat, but will probably be considerably less this week. Dry goods have been dull and weak, with very low prices, prices there has been a better business and more cheerful feeling.

The Corn Crop.

The early spring rains, which, in some sections, did great damage to the Corn which had been planted but a short time previously, followed by a long drought during the summer and many operators in Breadstuffs at the close of corn would be poor in quality and light in yield, as compared with other years. The magnificent weather for ripening during the fall, and the absence of early frosts dissipates the fears previously indulged in, and the crop is now in some regards the largest ever raised in the Southern part of Indiana, Ohio and Illinois, where it was regarded as a failure. The crop has turned out much better than was anticipated. The yield per acre will be large, but as there was a greater breadth sown, the number of bushels will aggregate as much as in former years. The crop in Central Illinois and throughout Iowa turned out much better than the most sanguine ever anticipated, and take the country throughout, it is safe to say that there will be as many bushels to be marketed as any previous year. The new corn now being marketed is of a superior quality. The grain is large and well filled, and if it were only a little drier, would readily inspect No. 1. Already it is having an effect on the market for old corn. The new crop will be ready for shipment, while the old crop, inspecting mostly as No. 2, is steadily declining the prices. And after the close of navigation, it would not surprise us to see the old and new selling at nearly the same figures.—Chicago Tribune, 12th.

Failure of Kentucky Cattle Traders.

[From the Paris Kentuckian, 12th.]

Our cattle men are having a hard time. The dispatches report a decline at New York yesterday. A. J. Shuttleworth, of Buffalo, has failed for $200,000, carrying with some of the Kentucky dealers. Clark county dealers lose some $20,000.

Joseph Owens, of this county, whose disappearance is still a mystery, leaves a debt amounting to $20,000, with few assets. It seems strange that Mr. O. should have sent both from Cincinnati to New York, and some think, to leave his creditors in the lurch.

A bank in New York City on which, it is said, Mr. Owens held some heavy drafts, has failed. Some of our cattle men think he has held Shuttleworth's drafts on the same bank for a considerable amount. Mr. S. will, we understand, pay 40 cents on the dollar. Ex-Gov. Kendall's drafts on the same bank were paid the day before its failure.

RIVER NEWS.

The weather continues very cold, and the prospects for an early resumption of navigation are about as remote as ever.

On Monday morning, between five and six o'clock, a collision occurred at Geneva, between the steamers Elector, of the People's Line, and the Bennett, of the Old Line. It appears that both lay at the wharf, and the Elector backed out just before the Bennett. The Elector sounded the signal for the left, the Bennett responded, but ran directly across the bow of the other boat. Before the latter could be stopped, the Elector had run into the wheel house of the Bennett, doing it an injury damaging her bulkhead to some extent. The Elector was not damaged.

The St. Louis Democrat says the Northern Line is played out for the season. Their boats are all laying up.

The J. R. Hoyle has been bought by parties in New Albany for a Louisville and Concordia packet. She has arrived at New Albany from Island 63.

The Bart Able goes into the Memphis and New Orleans trade.

Latest advices from the mountain boats confirm the opinion that one or more of them will reach the St. Louis before long, that were expected to winter in the ice, exposed to various dangers. The Lady Grace, Imperial and Amaranth are among those whose safety is assured.

The Evansville Journal, of Saturday, says: The Peerless was being unloaded all afternoon and last night at Hubbs, Patrick & Co's wharfboat, under the superintendence of M. O. Palmer, agent for the underwriters, the Champion No. 6 in the meanwhile keeping her afloat by her large syphons. One half her cargo is damaged, some of it destroyed, total loss of which has not been ascertained. The hull of the boat is estimated at $4,000. She is the worst wreck by a snag we ever saw, being badly broken and mangled. She was insured for $15,000.

A Louisville telegram, under date of Sunday, has the following items:

River slowly receding; five feet on Portland bar. Business dull. The Wild Duck, with several barges, passed down yesterday, sinking one of her barges, lay laden, at Bethlehem. A rise is reported in Green river. The Cincinnati mail line boats are reported that they contemplate low-water boats, or that the river indicates the necessity for such contracts. The Champion No. 6 has the largest freight list in port, amounting to 16,000. The Victory sunk a barge at Horn Lake on Wednesday, laden with flour and produce; 2,000 bushels damaged. The Ida sunk a barge at Ozark landing on Tuesday night.

The Zanesville Courier, of Friday, understands that the steamboat Experiment, recently owned by James Granger, Esq., has been sold by him to Messrs. W. & H. Bishop for $5,000.

We clip the following from the Wheeling Intelligencer, of Monday:

Business along the landing was brisk on Saturday. The Lena Leott, Capt. Hamilton, and Lansdale, Capt. Jones, were loading for Parkersburg. The former got away at 10 and the latter at 11 a. m., with fair trips. The Scioto departed for Gallipolis with as much freight as she could carry on this stage of water. The Captain was compelled to refuse a large lot of freight, which is estimated at more than she had. Capt. Marsh has contracted to run the Gallipolis packet hereafter as a regular packet between this place and Gallipolis. River three feet and one inch and stationary.

The W. F. Curtis, is a new boat in charge of Captain Brown, and was built out of the material of the Liberty, burned at Marietta some time ago. The Curtis is one of the lightest draught steamers to carry any thing, only drawing eighteen inches with coal, but She brought up over 100 tons on this low stage of water.

We extract the following items from the Cincinnati Gazette, of Monday:

A barge containing one hundred and seventy-five tons, which the Wild Duck took in tow at Aurora sunk near Bethlehem on Friday. The hay was insured in the Hoosiers and Crescent companies for $1500 each. The barge is not in deep water, and not more than one-fifth part of the hay will be damaged much.

The Edinburg departed for Memphis early on Saturday morning, drawing 3½ feet. She had no barge but expected to find one at Louisville or lighten her out of the river. Her pilots were Jo Cantrell and Thomas Stiggins.

The Wanaanita left for New Orleans on Saturday evening, drawing three feet, and expected here early on the 20th inst. Pilots, Ben. Bernier and Gus. Oppenheimer.

The Yorktown, a mountain boat, arrived here early on Saturday morning from Pittsburgh, loaded for Pittsburgh. Of course she will not be able to get up the falls, but may resh p or store her freight, and make a trip for Memphis. This will be determined to-day.

The Ben. Franklin left here, with barges of coal, which have been stuck on Four Mile for several days, arrived here yesterday morning.

Capt. Ben. Harper, formerly of Louisville, The Ohio river surveying and measuring party were in Evansville yesterday, having arrived from Mount Vernon. The survey of the Ohio river between this city and Cincinnati is completed by pilots so to be far too short—in fact, "one-third" too short. They have shown on paper the river only, extending their lines from point to point, and have not undertaken to trace out the bars, around which all steamers are compelled to go, excepting in high stages of water.

Chas. Sherrard, of Louisville, is becoming prominent in the commercial world. He owns the transportation, and is on the eve of great undertaking. He has a long contract to carry the last number of the Dubuque Times. Mr. Merry will, in a few days, dispatch from Dubuque, 15,000 bushels of wheat, 1,000 bbls of beef, 1,000 bbls of pork, and 1,000 bbls of lard. Wave four days. Thence to Cairo, with six barges in tow—capacity of each, 18,000. The whole 25,000 bushels from Dubuque, 15,000 bushels belong to Sherrard, and remainder shipped by N. G. Ryder, Sillier Bros., L. N. Gibbs, E. B. Hamilton, and probably others, who have faith in the project. This grain he proposes to have placed in the New York market a week or two before the rest per bushel, giving Dubuque shippers a margin of 10 per bushel. Time to New York less than 20 days from Dubuque.
